Retouching of 10,000 year old Woolly Mammoth Tusks

Damage: These pieces had cut lines from when they were harvested by the inuits from the glaciers and filled areas after they had been reconsolidated. We were asked to retouch the areas. Many of these tusks were 4-6 feet long.

Services:

Determine best methods for retouch to get the fossilized and mineral deposit look. Application of inpainting.

This was an unexpected surprise and I had a blast doing these pieces. I had the opportunity to touch all kinds of fossils-prehistoric: sloth, shark jaws, hippos, and a full size skull and tusks. (Too big to put here!) -Tina

Services:

Deconstruct box carefully and reuse all original elements including original backing papers. Repair all internal elements and place back into original order. Replace glass and rebuild box using original elements.

I had the opportunity to work on three original pieces Thorne Room Minatures. The detail was amazing. The story of Narcissa Niblack Thorne was very interesting. I spoke with the grandson of one of Ms. Thorne's original craftsmen. I look forward to visiting Chicago and seeing a large collection of works.
